

Danny Fisher gave me my first kiss on this bench.
I'm making sure some other young girl finds love here as well.

Newark has a new commitment to its parks. A new focus on its children. A new emphasis on law enforcement and safety. And on July 24th, Newark will acquire what the most community-focused cities in America all have – its very own Community Foundation.

Community Foundations are the fastest growing philanthropy in the country. And for very good reason. Citizens concerned with the specific needs of a community can now ensure that real, solid, particular change is enacted. For whom and where it matters most – now and in the future. And today, in partnership with the Newark Alliance and the Community Foundation of New Jersey, those who care about Newark can make tangible, beneficial changes and help America's fourth oldest city be as fresh and as full of possibility as tomorrow.

| If you want to find out how to create your own family fund, and possibly put in a few park benches of your own, join us.

For more information, please contact Hans Dekker.

hdekker@cfnj.org | 973.267.5533 | cfnj.org/newark

Thank you to "The Star-Ledger" for its generous support.